1 Year $1.00

Gettysburg, Pa., Wednesday, June 10, 1908.

The celebrations of the past week being over, there is nothing ahead for the month but to get ready for the 40th Anniversary of the battle, which we trust will show to the country that Gettysburg knows how to do a thing when she resolves to celebrate that great event.

Two school directors of the various districts of the county are organizing at the time of the year, selecting teachers for the ensuing year and adjusting the matter of salaries. Of course they do not have to pay the minimum salary of $25 a month, for the new law does not go into effect until June 1, 1908. What is the use of waiting, however, until compelled to pay the $25 rate or be punished by the withdrawal of the State appropriation. If the directors recognize the demand for the law and put the salaries up this year and make all arrangements and adjustments necessary in the taxes the work will be done and the district will begin to have the benefit of the law, instead of waiting until next year to have a mile of road built under the new law and what will affect the rate of taxes. If some supervisor will make known he will deserve the gratitude of the people of the county, as he will develop the facts for an intelligent discussion and consideration.

VETERANS MEET HERE NEXT YEAR

Department Commander Scoll Severely criticizes Orphan School Appointments.

Captain L. Y. Diller, Adj. Lt. Adj. W. H. Rapp, of this place, represented Corporal Skelly Post No. 9, G. A. R., at the annual encampment of the Department of Pennsylvania G. A. R. at Allentown last week. Before the convention adjourned, the post was decided to hold its annual meeting next year at Gettysburg.

The conveniences of the Ladies of the G. A. R. and the Women's Relief Corps were held at Allentown at the same time. It was represented by Mrs. Saline M. Stewart, who was present as Past President of the Gettysburg Circle; Mrs. Craig Geisselman, President of the circle, and Miss Mary E. Myers, delegate. Mrs. Stewart has been one of the corresponding secretaries during the past year and the convention was appointed assistant secretary. Miss Myers was elected delegate to the National Convention which will be held in San Francisco next August.

The Women's Relief Corps of Gettysburg was represented by Mrs. Anna L. Kitzmiller, a past President, and Mrs. Laura Snyder.

Commander Scoll Scores Penneybacker.

The following is an extract of the address of Department Commander R. P. Scoll:

"To shield the soldiers' orphans, the infaulterance and attorney of the law of the orphan schools, private institutions, learned soldiers' Orphan Schools, from any possible contact with the vices and noxious influences of partisan politics the Legislature has in an appropriate way provided that the P. L. 57, creating a committee, consisting of eleven persons: The Governor, two Senators, three Representatives and five honorably discharged soldiers, shall be appointed to the Committee, to be appointed by the Department Commander, to take charge of all children then in the Soldiers' Orphans Schools or other institution employed as caretakers, and to whom the authority is given to authorise said commission to rent suitable buildings, employ teachers, etc. This law made with the approval and hearty endorsement of the Legislature."

"The Act of May 27th, 1897, P. L. 171, providing for the erection of the Pennsylvania Soldiers' Orphans Industrial Schools enacted, S. 3, that the said committee, then appointed to the above-named Committee, to be appointed by the Department Commander, to take charge of all children then in the Soldiers' Orphans Schools or other institution employed as caretakers, and to whom the authority is given to authorise said commission to rent suitable buildings, employ teachers, etc. This law made with the approval and hearty endorsement of the Legislature."

"The ordinance was a radical measure, of which the corporations intended to be affected, therefore were not so easily satisfied. Those who could have been called a committee who could have given notice to all corporations of a meeting at which there would have been an exchange of opinions, as to arrive at the most uniform method of taxation as applicable to all of the corporations and equitable as between them and so as not to discourage town improvements.

It is too late for this to be done? The ordinance in question could be repealed so as to give the telephone company the right to erect its underground system and thus put it on a basis of equality with all other corporations. After this an ordinance might be drawn which would give equality of taxation and be for the best interests of the town.

WANTED--A SUPERVISOR TO ANK FOR ROAD UNDER NEW LAW.

We have given elsewhere a synopsis of the Good Roads law from the point of view of what will be necessary for a supervisor to do in the attempt to have a road constructed under the new law. Would you be well for a beginning to make an ordinance in the direction in the country?

We are aware that any such movement may meet with opposition from some of the tax payers. We admit that the Highway Department Act suggests to us that it is a Republican bureaucratic measure to make offices and that a portion of the enormous appropriation will go to support such offices and all the red tape which will be involved to make costs for the benefit of some one rather than to be put on the roads. However, all criticism and opposition might only be setting off one's nose to spite one's face.

There are millions to be spent. They are going to be spent whether Adams county gets a share of them or not. Suppose the asking for a road does involve red tape and the use of political influence at home or abroad to get the road, why need that deter efforts in that direction.

We will only be in the same boat with lots of other people in other counties.

The Highway Department may be used as a political machine and the roads will be distributed as gifts which will be accepted by any such authority, for it is the people's money which is being spent to which they have as much right as any other section.

It will undoubtedly be admitted by the Eworth League of this place as delegate to the Harrisburg District Expert League Convention which convened in Mechanicsburg Thursday and Friday of next week.

Supreme Court Cases.

The Supreme Court on Tuesday of last week handed down decisions in two Adams County cases.

Sargent & Sons vs. S. L. Johns and H. N. Gitt, trading as the L. M. Allentown Hardware Co., was affirmed. It is decided that the notice of the assumption of debt of L. M. Allentown whose store was purchased, was sufficient to hold the defendants for the debt of L. M. Allentown to the plaintiffs. The case was tried at the November Court, 1901, and resulted in a verdict for the plaintiffs for $3,262.27.

B. Elbert & Sons vs. S. L. Johns and H. N. Gitt, trading as the L. M. Allentown Hardware Co. In this case it is held that the plaintiff should be allowed to sue for the amount of the claim against the defendant for the amount of the debt.

It is possible that when the highway department completes a road it would be a permanent improvement. Why not then try the experiment? Let some supervisor make the move? He will be able, when the expense is shown him, to decide whether to go ahead or back out and to know whether the township portion of the cost could be paid out of the regular taxes. If this could be done the people could make expression of the fact whether the taxes should be increased to make the experiment. If there should be great opposition the matter could be dropped and the community would be the wiser, for they would have a knowledge of just what it is going to cost to build a road under the new law.

In the consideration of this question comes the inquiry as to what will be the course of the county commissioners. Will they approve and pay the portion of the cost that falls upon the county. We believe that they will comply with the law. They will recognize that it is as much their duty to see that the advantages of the Good Roads law is obtained for the county as any other duty of their office. If there is a public sentiment to favor of the highways when the expense is known they will, as custodians of the people's money, listen to the demands of the public. It shall appear that our people approve of the State appropriation, then that means they will approve of the county paying its one-sixth of the expenses to obtain the benefit of new roads. When that is made clear to the county officials we anticipate no trouble from them.

The question however is, what will be the cost of these State highways, can the townships afford them and shall they assume the expense of them? The question is one in which we travel in darkness until it can be known just exactly what expenses there will be on the township to have a mile of road built under the new law and what will affect the rate of taxes. If some supervisor will make known he will deserve the gratitude of the people of the county, as he will develop the facts for an intelligent discussion and consideration.

An agricultural event of unusual interest took place in the eastern end of the county last Wednesday when a field of 24 acres on the Samuel Schwartz farm belonging to S. L. Johns, and lying along the Littlestown turnpike was plowed, harrowed, rolled and planed in corn in one day, 20 plows being in the field at once, with 55 horses, all owned by Mr. Johns and brought from his various farms. The farmers from the other farms, Jacob Strasbaugh, Lewis Clark, William Shantz, George Cromer, George Seiby, John Shantz and Marvin Bowes, with their help, were all there to assist the tenant, George Kremer. Mr. Johns' superintendent, David B. Horst, being in charge. A big bonfire supper was also dished out.

The conveniences of the Ladies of the G. A. R. and the Women's Relief Corps were held at Allentown at the same time. It was represented by Mrs. Saline M. Stewart, who was present as Past President of the Gettysburg Circle; Mrs. Craig Geisselman, President of the circle, and Miss Mary E. Myers, delegate. Miss Myers was elected delegate to the National Convention which will be held in San Francisco next August.

Through Some Mistake the Report from the High School shows the percentage of attendance for the term to be "I". This would be 15 per cent., the highest attained for many years. This remarkable percentage in so large a school is due to two facts that the interest manifested by the pupils was unusually great and that excellent health was enjoyed by all during the past year. Among those who attended every day for more than one year, H. H. Ziegler of the Senior Class should have been record'd for years.

RAISING STRAWBERRIES IN TOWN

EXPENSE IS SMALL COMPARED WITH THE PLEASURE OF OWNING A PATCH

A Successful Way to Raise Tomatoes For the Table And How to Can Them In Cold Water.

For the Contractor

If you ever eat anything quite as good as strawberries picked off the vines in your back yard? It was just five years ago that the writer secured a number of plants at a cost of fifty-five cents and planted them in a little plot, twelve by twelve feet, in a Gettysburg garden. There were three varieties, an early, a late and an intermediate. A neighbor gave him several wheelbarrow loads of manure from his stable and after several hours' work one evening the strawberry patch was launched.

Several of the plants blossomed that spring and there was a quart or two of strawberries to eat. Next year for over four weeks there was enough for supper every other night and occasionally for breakfast. The following year the vines bore better and they are bearing still. They have lived past the allotted time of strawberry plants and the bed is now a tangled mass of vines. And this is all the only—fifty-five cents in cash for I don't know how many quarts of berries fresh off the vine. My! how good they did taste and all they cost was fifty-five cents and a total of seven hours work in a back yard in Gettysburg.

Toines in Kegs.

And did you ever try raising tomatoes in nail kegs? It may be a little late in the season, but it's worth trying any way. Nail kegs can be saved at almost any hardware store for a trifle. It doesn't have to be a nail keg, although your friends may joke you by saying that the nail flavor will not go with your constitution. Fill it partly with sand, mixed with several shovels of rich manure, then plant your plant, or better two of them. As the vine begins to bear it grows down the side of the keg and when the tomatoes ripen they are kept off the ground and out of the mud and dirt. The nice thing about this plan is that you don't have to own a garden to raise tomatoes this way. You can stand the keg on the back porch, on the pavement or boardwalk, or in your parlor window. More kegs more tomatoes. The large ones that ripen in the sun and are ready when you eat like eating sliced tomatoes for supper. Of course this would not do to raise tomatoes on a large scale but it's a good way for the small family as a number in Gettysburg can testify.

Canning Tomatoes in Cold Water.

J. E. McCombs, of Harford county, Md., gives the following receipt on how to can tomatoes in cold water: "Wipe each tomato carefully and pack in perfectly clean jars. When the jars will stand each other the cold water must be run in until the jar is full and overflows. Let the water run until every particle of air has been forced out; then, while the jars are still overflowing, screw on the covers and stand upside down. See that covers are as tight as they can be made. Pack the jars away, head down, in a box of sand in a cool, dark place." He says this way of canning tomatoes has been found most satisfactory, besides being very cheap.

The New Woman and Her Doings

WHAT is probably the most hopeful sign of that strong, complicated, conglomeration life in the girls' clubs there? For women, young and old, of her household, except to church or the school, have something comparatively new in east-side annals. The strong, ambitious girls there are changing these conditions. More than a dozen years ago Miss Grace Dodge began establishing social and educational clubs among them. It gave them a chance to learn a bit of better things and to do. From that initiative they swept westward and started for themselves social clubs likewise associations for instruction not only in school branches, but in the industries. In that episode the girls' clubs, you see, became the independent, nonsectarian working girls have now some 600 clubs. There are glee-clubs, associations, and some of the girls belonging to them can take dictation and typewriting in five languages. There is a society of artificial flower workers that subdivide into clubs. You see, their number to Paris to buy, how the French make those exquisite silk, cotton and velvet blossoms and leaves which cannot be distinguished from the natural except at very close sight. These young women are New York revolutionaries, the second novel, "Elizabeth Schuyler: A Story of Old New York."

Two carloads of the girls, who are members of the New York club, came to the city recently. They placed in the windows of men's clubs, send their money down to the girls' clubs, and the girls' clubs sent half a million to the University of Pennsylvania. All credit goes to the girls.

The girls have chosen to hold classes for learning telegraphy and stenography and those for nature study, besides many others. The French make those exquisite silk, cotton and velvet blossoms and leaves which cannot be distinguished from the natural except at very close sight.

For a colony of good people who were poor, who could not afford to dress as they pleased, the girls' clubs have not been formed from donations to women, who had no relatives of either sex are allowed to constitute themselves guardians of the manners and morals of other girls?

Miss Mary E. Springer, recording secretary of New York city chapter D. A. R., is devoting herself to historical romance writing. She has dedicated to the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution her second novel, "Elizabeth Schuyler: A Story of Old New York."

United States Senate document 103, 102, contains the following testimony before the Philippine commission by Archdeacon Nodzoda of Manila: "The Filipinos are the most intelligent native workers in the world, and more so than the man in every respect. They are not inferior to us in any way, and I think that mind to the two tops. If the hand did not overflow. The agent promptly replied that there was a kind of hog raised over in the Chickasaw country which used to range on the creek and eat the corn, and the men on the trail, I got it and said, 'Now, lass, are you content?' She began to cry and wanted the 'horrid thing' taken away. But that I wouldn't allow. In the end she got accustomed to seen it, and as we went along I told it to some use, we had some shucks put into the hole made it a bread and cheese suppository. We have never quarreled since it came."

Preferred Dogs to Land.

They tell a good one of a prominent real estate man of Waukegan, Some man who fell in love with a magnetic but belligerent young man and then employed some of her dollars in educating him so that he might make a commanding appearance in her social circle. The girls' clubs have been sending post cards to the women, married or single, whom they learned how to make it better than the Indian women from whom they learned how to make it better. "I am a user of Barker's Mandrake Bitter and there is no medicine its equal for chronic constipation, which is my trouble. I also had varicose veins which caused a running sore on my leg, and I could get no help until I began to use Barker's Mandrake Bitter. I soon noticed a change for the better and after using the Bitter for six months the sore healed and has given me no trouble since."

The historian Lathlin, the period of whose observation dated back to 1700-05, describes how in March the Indians made transverse incisions with their hatchets, from which trickles of sweat and water, which they afterwards bathed in, drove away the swelling taste that made their people sick after using the Bitter for six months.
